Classroom News

Welcome to our 3rd week of school! I am very impressed with the commitment and hard work that many of the students have been putting into their online learning. Let's continue to have another awesome week!

This upcoming Wednesday will be our first half day schedule for the school year. Refer to the half day schedule to see the changes in some of the subject times for Wednesday.

Thank you to those who scheduled your child's 1:1 meeting with me last week. It was wonderful talking your child and gaining more information of how I can best support their learning.

Thank you all and have a great week!

Live School:

Reminder to sign up for your child's Live School account that should have been sent by your child's teacher. This is a great behavior tool used to see how your child is doing in the class and their progress.

Shout Outs!

- Shout out to Ailani and Matthew for receiving PAWsome Referrals last week!
- Shout out to Adam for being chosen in the Live School Raffle last week!

Quote of the week:

Little by little, one walks far.

Helpful Learning/ Focus Tips at Home:

- provide headphones for your child
- find a nice quiet area in the house where your child can fully focus on their learning

What We're Learning Next Week

Reading: This week, students will continue building on the understanding of character traits and actions through the sequencing of the story. Students will practice with context clues and author's point of view in a text.

Writing: This week, students will focus on the standard conventions of complete sentences. We will begin the process of a writing a paragraph.

Math: This week, we will review Place Value and Rounding. Students will begin the properties of Addition.

Science: This week, we will continue discussing light energy, light through objects, and how animals see.
